

stuff we love

STYLE

Just for Kicks

| Shoes by Morgan and Milo | Do flaming or glittery feet make kids run faster and jump higher? You'll find out. ($36, 7½ toddler to 12 youth, shopessentials.net)

Scrubby Duds

| Pima cotton scrub pants by Posh Baby | The ease of hospital wear, doctored up with a healthy dose of style. ($28, infant to 5 toddler, poshbabyllc.com)

Caped Crusade

| Blue Earth Hero cape shirt by Little Capers | As almost any grade schooler will tell you, Superman escaped Krypton just moments before its destruction. To save the earth, it's going to take a true superhero—a generation of them, actually. ($32, 2 to 8 youth, littlecapers.com)

Bag It

| Felt purse by Groovy Holidays | A toddler on the town won't be slowed down by this petite (7½" by 5") purse . . . as if slowing down a girl on a mission were possible. ($6, shopfeatheryournest.com)

The Jungle Look

| Blue Animal Friends bodysuit by Zutano | Zebras and monkeys have to wear their coats all the time, but kids need options for hot summer days. This one-piece suit keeps everything cool. ($16, infant to 12 months, twobluepeas.com)

Last Resort

| Coney Island halter dress by Appaman | A cute dress helps lift our heavyheartedness over the demise of America's quintessential amusement park. ($40, 6 months to 6 years, lalaling.com)

"It makes her look like a yummy little meringue!" (Jamie Rae peony hat, $22, maddiescloset.com)

—Brent Hale, associate art director

Jumping boy (opposite) and girl on blanket: photographs by Thomas Skiffington